1

Before cutting out the in-wall box hole in the drywall confirm the tracing and stud hole marking are both level and safely between the two (2) 16" on-center studs.

Note: When using the INW-AM100 in-wall box as part of the installation with the AM100 swing out mount, we recommend using the mounting template supplied with the INW-AM100 to locate and mark the mounting holes.

INW-AM100 Installation Guide

2

Use the 1/4" drill bit to create the initial hole along the trace line to insert the drywall saw.

3

Caution: Make sure there are no exposed A/C wires or signal cables within the wall that might be cut while making the drywall cutout.

4

Once the four (4) mounting holes and square cutouts have been made in the drywall test, insert the in-wall box into the hole to confirm proper fit and level.

5

Remove the key lock front cover and set aside for later use.

Installation Guide

6

7

Attach the Snap in Plate and Snap in Bracket to the In-wall using four (4) M4 x5 mm screws.

8

Fully insert the in-wall box assembly into the wall opening insuring the four (4) mounting hole slots are in line with the pre-drilled stud center pilot mounting holes.

9

Refer to your installation instruction supplied with your AM100 articulating mount to complete the mounting process over the in place INW-AM100 in wall box.

Once the complete in-wall box and swing out mount are firmly installed together on the wall surface, power and signal cables can be separated and run along the upper and lower swing out arm cable paths.
